Vice Admiral Laurence H. Frost, USN
Director, National Security Agency
Fort George G. Meade, Maryland

Dear Admiral Frost:

The members of the United States Intelligence Board join me in noting that, coincident to completion of your present tour of duty in the next few days, you will be concluding a long, continuous association with the field of foreign intelligence, including membership on the Intelligence Board from the time of its establishment in September 1958.

I wish on this occasion, therefore, to convey, on behalf of your colleagues on the Intelligence Board and in the Central Intelligence Agency, our very best wishes to you for the future.

Sincerely,

John A. McCone
Chairman
